

Patient-Centered Team-Based Care

Every patient has dynamic healthcare needs. The diverse education, training, and skills offered by varied healthcare professionals allows practitioners to meet the individualized needs of each unique patient. Through collaborative and interdisciplinary efforts, optimal health and wellness is achieved. Increasing access to comprehensive, patient-centered healthcare teams improves affordability and health outcomes.

The healthcare system does not and cannot function with a single profession leading all patient care. Healthcare teams and the providers that lead them are driven by the individualized needs and preferences of each patient, not a hierarchy of professionals.
